The story of the Lost FM Radio Band is a story surrounded by a considerable degree of mysticism. It all began back in the late 1950's when two country-boys first encountered the vibrating rhythm of the early rock 'n' roll music of Buddy Holly and Little Richard. They left their home and hit the road only equipped with an old guitar and a rusty snare drum playing at every venue along the way for shelter and food, soon to acquire a name for themselves as the hardest hitting rock 'n' roll band around. But in the mid-1960's they suddenly disappeared without a trace never to be heard from again. Most folks say that they were abducted by the Russians, while others claim, that it was aliens. Soon after their disappearance, there were reports about people receiving strange radio transmissions picked up by their radio devices. Radio transmissions containing what many described as the best darn rock n' roll music, that they have ever heard. These rumors were never publicly confirmed, but as the story spread, many people began searching for that lost FM frequency, where it was said that you could hear a band playing rock 'n' roll music, as it had never been played before. This band commonly became known as the Lost FM Radio Band. But in 2018 as lightning from a clear sky, they suddenly reappeared, bringing with them that long desired sound of true rock 'n' roll music, which in the public opinion had only been considered a mere rumor the last 50 years. This is probably not the true story of the Lost FM Radio Band – but it is a story nonetheless.

Historien om Lost FM Radio Band er en historie, der er omgærdet af en aura af gådefuld mystik. Det begyndte alt sammen tilbage i de sene 1950'ere, hvor to drenge fra jævne landlige kår for første gang stiftede bekendtskab med de vibrerende rytmer fra den tidlige rock n' roll musik. De forlod deres hjemstav og drog afsted udelukkende udstyret med en gammel guitar og en rusten lille tromme. De drog hvorhen vejen ledte dem, idet de optrådte på enhver spillested, som de stødte på, for at kunne klare sig til dagen og vejen. Snart erhvervede de sig et omdømme som det mest hårdtslående rock n' roll band der kunne opdrives. Men midt i 1960'erne forsvandt de sporløst og ingen hørte siden fra dem. Mange mener, at de blev bortført af russerne, mens andre dog påstår, at det var aliens. Snart efter deres forsvinden, begyndte der at sprede sig rygter om, at folk var begyndt at opfange mærkelige radiotransmissioner på deres radioapparater. Radiotransmissioner, der indholdt, hvad mange mennesker betegnede som den bedste rock n' roll musik, som de nogensinde havde hørt. Disse rygter blev aldrig offentligt bekræftet, men i takt med at rygterne spredte sig, begyndte mange mennesker at søge efter den forsvundne FM-frekvens, hvor det hævdedes, at man kunne høre et band spille rock n' roll musik, som det aldrig var blevet spillet før. Dette band fik tilnavnet The Lost FM Radio Band.

Men i 2018, som et lyn fra en skyfri himmel, dukkede de pludselig op igen og med sig bragte de den længe begærede lyd af den autentiske rock n' roll musik, der i offentligheden udelukkende havde været betragtet som blot et rygte de sidste 50 år.

Dette er sandsynligvis ikke den sande historie om Lost FM Radio Band – men det er en historie ikke desto mindre.
